

James Delco

is a Hispanic-American Artist, Singer-Songwriter, and Producer based out of Charlotte, North Carolina. Delco draws inspiration equally from the world around him as well as internally to create novella-like compositions that aim to tell "sometimes-true" stories while remaining open to the listener's own imagination. His sonic palette disregards the boundaries across genre and era to create unique songs that recognize the power of nostalgia, while never relying on it to deliver catchy pop and rock songs that go deeper upon inspection. Delco has spent his early career playing in solo acoustic settings which has given him a skill set as a solo performer that is only enhanced by the live electric band format. The goal of his music is to empathize, challenge, and invite connection.